'SHARKS: On Assignment with Brian Skerry' Exhibit: Tom Ridge Environmental Center visitors will come face-to-face or rather face-to-nose with one of the world's most feared predators in the new exhibition "SHARKS: On Assignment with Brian Skerry," which opened September 27, 2021. National Geographic Explorer and award-winning photojournalist Brian Skerry has spent more than 10,000 hours underwater exploring the world's oceans with a camera to show why sharks need to be protected and appreciated as an integral species within the ecosystem. The exhibition will include large-scale images and videos—all highlighting Skerry's passion, skill and life-long commitment to conservation of the world's oceans. "SHARKS: On Assignment with Brian Skerry" will remain open at the Tom Ridge Environmental Center until January 30, 2022.
